Recognition for Exemplary Contributions of the Staff: Dr. Jagdish Chand

In acknowledgment of his exceptional dedication and leadership in integrating environmental education into his teaching methodologies, Dr. Jagdish Chand has profoundly inspired students to embrace environmental consciousness. Through the creation of impactful, environmentally focused learning experiences, he has instilled a sense of responsibility and empowerment in his students, encouraging them to take meaningful actions toward sustainability.

Dr. Chand has served as a role model for his students, fostering a culture of environmental awareness and stewardship within the educational community. His commitment has significantly advanced our collective environmental efforts and strengthened the college's mission to promote sustainable development.

In recognition of these outstanding contributions, Dr. Jagdish Chand has been awarded the Award of Honor for Best Teacher by the National EduTrust of India, an esteemed honor from the Ministry of Micro, Small, and Medium Enterprises, Government of India.

Recognition for Exemplary Contributions of the Staff and Students

Dr. Jagdish Chand, as the Coordinator of the Unnat Bharat Abhiyan (UBA) at Government College Sangrah, has played an instrumental role in guiding students to actively engage in rural development initiatives across villages adopted by the college under this flagship program. With his leadership, the students involved in UBA have made significant contributions to villages such as Reerli, Borli, Sangrah, Ludhiyana, and Mandoli, where they have been recognized by local Panchayats with Certificates of Appreciation for their extraordinary efforts.

Under Dr. Jagdish Chand's coordination, these students have undertaken several impactful activities that address pressing community needs. One of their primary contributions has been organizing and executing cleanliness drives in these villages. These drives not only improve local hygiene but also encourage villagers to maintain clean and healthy surroundings, fostering a culture of community responsibility and well-being.

Additionally, Dr. Jagdish Chand and his team of UBA students have initiated tree plantation drives, which aim to enrich the environment and counter the effects of deforestation. These plantation activities have had a direct positive impact on the local ecosystem and serve as a vital step towards sustainable rural development. Furthermore, they have worked to protect and clean water sources, ensuring that the villagers have access to clean and safe water. This work contributes to better health outcomes and reinforces the importance of environmental stewardship within the community.

An essential aspect of the students' engagement has been their efforts to raise awareness among villagers about various central and state government programs and schemes. With guidance from Dr. Jagdish Chand, the students have informed the local community about resources and services available to them, such as health care programs, agricultural support schemes, and educational opportunities. This awareness empowers villagers to make informed decisions and benefit from government initiatives, improving their quality of life.

Through these diverse activities, Dr. Jagdish Chand and the students of GC Sangrah are fostering a spirit of empowerment, sustainability, and community service within rural areas, embodying the values and objectives of the Unnat Bharat Abhiyan.
