- To keep traditional dance and dancing moves alive.

3. The Context:

The institution is located in the Sirmour district of Himachal Pradesh, in the Trans-Giri region. The ethnic group known as Hatti dominates the population of the area. The residents of the area have long argued that they should be included in the schedule tribe area due to the area's tough geographical position and topography, as well as the fact that they are an isolated, culturally and ethnically diverse collection of people. The Hatti people in Uttarakhand's adjoining region have already been granted Schedule Tribe status, although this is not the case for those living in Himachal Pradesh. A particular day should be commemorated, with a focus on local cultural events relating to the Hatti region. Apart from that, the students

4. The Practice:

In keeping with best practise, the institute hosts a cultural festival known as GIRI SPANDAN, which is named after the region's most famous river, Giri. Every year, a cultural event is held with a focus on the presentation of local culture and languages. Prior to the eve, students who volunteer for cultural activities are educated by experts (both in-house and regional specialists) and further nurtured in their understanding of ethnic dance and song customs. Traditional songs and dance moves such as laaman, Gee, Gangi, Jhuri, Rasa, Dhooda, Mala, and Bharthari are encouraged to be used in the presentations.

As a token of appreciation, the finest performers are honoured during the college's annual day function. Simultaneously, the college folk dance team, which consists of ethnic dancers and accompanying vocalists who are specially trained in ethnic folk music, participates in local and state-level events on a regular basis. The squad performs every year on the eve of August 15th (Independence Day) in the parade ground of Sangraht, as well as at the International Renuka Fair held at Renuka Ji.

5. Evidence of Success:

As a consequence of this campaign, the Hatti community's ethnic culture is well known throughout Himachal Pradesh. In the last five years, students from the college folk team have placed third three times in the annual intercollegiate folk dancing competition hosted by HP University Shimla. The college is currently known not just for its academic values, but also for its rich cultural history and the efforts made to preserve and improve it. The pupils are now actively participating in all cultural activities that include traditional cultural values, ultimately creating a sense of pride for their cultural values and passing it on as a rich and precious inheritance for future generations.

6. Problems Encountered and Resources Required:

During the early stages of the practice's implementation, the number of students who came forward was relatively low. This was owing to the residents of the area's shy temperament, which tries to keep them hidden from the spotlight of glamour and exposure. Due to conservative societal and family beliefs, mobilising and motivating female students to participate in such events was extremely challenging. The second issue we found was with the basic facility and cash. Basic instruments, traditional folk dancing outfits, and accompanying materials were in short supply at the college.

Best Practice-II: Campaigns to Raise Public Awareness on Social and Local Issues

1. Title of the Practice: Campaigns to Raise Public Awareness on Social and Local Issues

2. Objectives of the Practice:

- As a higher education institution, we have a moral responsibility to contribute to the well-being of society.
- To instil a sense of belonging to society and the country as a whole.
- In terms of extension activity, to bridge the gap between society and the Institute.
- To instil in them a sense of social responsibility.
- Creating a sense of unity among the pupils and strengthening their bonds.

3. The Context:

As earlier mentioned, the location is geographically located in extremely tough terrain, and the soil in the vicinity is not fertile, with very little rainfall. Because of these factors, the only source of income for the residents of the area was daily labourers in the area or elsewhere in the state. In comparison to the rest of the state, the area's literacy rate was extremely low. Sirmour district was previously the least literate district in Himachal Pradesh, and it is still among the state's bottom three least literate districts today. People in the neighbourhood are unaware of numerous societal difficulties as a result of these factors.

4. The Practice:

On a regular basis, the institute promotes numerous awareness efforts among students and the surrounding community on a variety of social topics. This includes a gender sensitization campaign in which college students participate in a demonstration, holding a play card with a gender sensitization slogan inscribed on it, and then travel the town yelling slogans about the same concerns and imploring others not to discriminate between boys and girls.

Principal
Govt. College Sangrahi
Distt. Sirmour H P

The kids also participated in a drug abuse and prevention campaign, in which they marched around town brandishing play cards and yelling slogans about drug misuse and the detrimental effects of alcohol consumption. The On the night of NSS Day, college students perform skits on the problem of booze usage and its consequences. They have also contributed to programmes such as Beti bachao and Beti pado, voter awareness campaigns, and so on. With the aid of the NGO PAPN, the college has made a substantial contribution to raising awareness about the issue of child marriage among students and the general public (People in action for people in need). To end the practise of social untouchability (due to the remote location of the area and the low literacy rate, as well as certain social dogmas), and to promote harmony and strengthen bonds among students of various castes and creeds, a community lunch is served at various events organised in the area.

5. Evidence of Success:

The efforts are bearing the fruits with the passage of time. In comparison to previous phases, students today are more enthusiastic in participating in events related to social concerns. The message is carried forward by the students and disseminated among family members and society as a result of the mass movements conducted by the college from time to time. Untouchability has dropped dramatically, but child marriages and gender inequality have declined significantly. The residents in the area are now more aware of the consequences of consuming alcoholic beverages. There has been a significant reduction in the number of female students dropping out of high school and college.

6. Problems Encountered and Resources Required:

The institute has enough staff to organise such social awareness activities, but the society's conventional attitude would not embrace the freshly floated notions of social and gender fairness. However, as time passed and students and institutes continued to work hard, a wind of change began to blow in the society.

4.Special New Innovative Initiatives or Ideas Adopted in the College

The Department of Geography at Government College Sangrah has embraced a forward-thinking initiative by collaborating with the Indian Institute of Remote Sensing (IIRS), a part of ISRO. This partnership aims to bring advanced geospatial technology knowledge to both students and teachers. The college has been designated as a nodal centre for the IIRS-ISRO Outreach Programme, which highlights its importance as a hub for geospatial education.

Particularly, geography students in their 2nd and 3rd years study Remote Sensing, GPS, and Geographic Information Systems (GIS) as part of their standard curriculum from HPU Shimla. However, what sets the college apart is the added value of practical, hands-on training. Experts and high-level scientists from IIRS ISRO provide skilful and advanced training to the students, giving them exposure to cutting-edge technologies.

This initiative not only strengthens the academic foundation of the students but also equips them with imperative practical skills that will enhance their future career prospects. By bridging theoretical knowledge with real-world application, the college ensures that its students are prepared for the demands of the geospatial technology industry, thus contributing to their professional growth.

OUR CORRESPONDENT

NAHAN, MARCH 16

The Department of Geography at Government College, Sangrah, has been bestowed with the prestigious designation of serving as the centre for the distance education system under the Indian Institute of Remote Sensing (IIRS-ISRO outreach programme). This initiative, aimed at imparting training and workshops in remote sensing and geographical information system (GIS), underscores the commitment of the Indian Space Research Organisation (ISRO) towards promoting advanced technologies in education and research.

Dr Jagdish Chand, Assistant Professor, has been appointed as the coordinator for this outreach programme by the ISRO. Speaking on the significance of this collaboration, Dr Chand highlighted the pivotal role of the IIRS in remote sensing and geoinformatics applications. He said the institute's outreach programmes align with the objectives outlined in the National Education Policy, 2020 (NEP), by focusing on training and capacity building in remote sensing and related technologies.

The outreach programmes conducted by the IIRS aim to enhance the skills of students, teachers, researchers, and professionals in utilising remote sensing data and geospatial technologies across various domains such as natural resource management, disaster management, urban planning, agriculture, and environmental monitoring. The IIRS contributes to the promotion of experiential learning and interdisciplinary approach advocated in the NEP, 2020.
